

APPLICATION FORM TO BE CONSIDERED A VULNERABLE CONSUMER

Vulnerable Consumer Application form (111 Code)

Complete this application form if you want NOW to consider you (or someone else you are applying on behalf of) as a Vulnerable Consumer under the 111 Contact Code.

The 111 Contact Code ensures that people who are more likely to need to contact 111, and who have a home phone line that doesn't work during a power failure (with no other means of contacting 111 at their house that they can use), are provided with a means to contact the 111 emergency services in the event of a power failure.

A Vulnerable Consumer must meet all the following criteria:

- You or the person you are applying on behalf of is at particular risk of needing to call 111-emergency services (either now or sometime in the near future) for health, safety, or disability reasons.
- You have no other way to call the 111-emergency service at your premises that can work for a continuous 8-hour period, in the event of a power failure. For example, if you have access to a mobile phone the Vulnerable consumer can use to make calls to 111 emergency services, or your services are already protected by a backup generator or battery, then you will not qualify.
- You have a landline service provided over Fibre or Fixed Wireless. This is because these services need mains power in the home to operate. Copper landline services will continue to work during a power outage if you're using a compatible home phone. Customers using naked broadband or copper landline services will not qualify.

You can apply for yourself or on behalf of someone who lives at the premises where the phone line is supplied.

PART E: Guidance GUIDANCE NOTE 1

For a person to be part of NOW's Vulnerable Consumer Register they must be 'at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service'. Part B asks for information that will allow us to know that the person who is applying to be covered by the 111 Contact Code is 'at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service'.

The person could be 'at particular risk' now, or sometime in the near future, and they may be at risk on a temporary or permanent basis. The person must not have a means of accessing 111 in a power outage (e.g., no access to a mobile phone they can use).

What does 'at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service' mean?

A person who is 'at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service' means a person who is more likely than other people to require the 111-emergency service because of a specific circumstance applicable to that consumer.

The following scenarios illustrate some situations where a person may be considered 'at particular risk' under the 111 Contact Code.

Scenario one

Mary and Joe are pensioners living together. Joe does not currently have a mobile phone or a battery back up. These days Joe is unsteady on his feet. He has fallen over a couple of times recently. Mary is active but spends most of her time at home looking after Joe. Mary is worried that the next time Joe falls he might seriously injure himself.

Scenario two

Fatima has type 2 diabetes and is in the early stages of dementia. Fatima needs to take medication every day to manage her conditions but does not have a mobile phone to use during an emergency.

Scenario three

Jennifer's father has moved back into the family home. He's been verbally and physically abusive to family members in the past and Jennifer is worried that it might happen again. She also does not have a mobile phone to use.

Scenario four

Tane is booked in to have both knees replaced. He lives alone without a mobile phone or battery back up and is worried about complications or a fall and needing to access the 111-emergency service during recovery over the next three months.

What do the 'Health', 'Safety' and 'Disability' categories in Question 4 mean?

This question asks you to select which of three categories (health, safety or disability) most closely relates to the specific circumstance you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) has that means you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service.

If you tick the 'health' category, this means the specific circumstance that makes you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service is related to health. For example, it is a known medical condition.

An example of a specific circumstance that may mean you tick the 'safety' category is family violence. An example of a specific circumstance that may mean you tick the 'disability' category is sensory impairment, intellectual impairment, or physical impairment.

Do I have to be ‘at particular risk’ now, or could it be sometime in the future?

A person may not be ‘at particular risk’ now, but they know they will become ‘at particular risk’ sometime in the near future. For example, a person who has a planned surgical operation.

How can a person be ‘at particular risk’ on a temporary or permanent basis?

A person may be ‘at particular risk’ because they have suffered a physical injury, but the person expects to recover from this injury after a certain period of time. In these circumstances, the person is only ‘at particular risk’ on a temporary basis.

An example of a person who may be ‘at particular risk’ on a permanent basis is a person who has congenital blindness and will not recover.

Question 5 asks you to tell us whether the specific circumstance that makes you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) ‘at particular risk’ is on a temporary or permanent basis.

GUIDANCE NOTE 2

Part C asks for information to support the answers given to Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q6 in Part B.

One of the following must be provided:

- (a) sufficient evidence to support that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service; or
- (b) the details of a nominated person we can contact to verify that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service.

Who can be a ‘nominated person’?

A nominated person must be someone who, by virtue of their occupation, is competent to give an opinion on whether you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service.

For example, if the ‘health’ or ‘disability’ category has been ticked in response to Q4, then a health practitioner (such as a GP) could be a nominated person. If the ‘safety’ category has been ticked, then a police officer, a currently registered social worker, a lawyer (with a current practicing certificate), or a family court judge could be a nominated person.

We recommend that before you make your application to us, you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) first contact the nominated person to discuss the application. Please provide your date of birth and NHI number (where applicable) to help the nominated person identify you when we contact them.

If I don’t provide the details of a nominated person, what sort of evidence must be provided?

It must be sufficient information to show that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service. Examples of evidence that may be sufficient include:

- a completed Electricity Authority ‘Notice of Potential Medically Dependant Consumer (MDC) Status’ form, which includes a certification from a DHB, private hospital or GP (accessible from their website here: <https://www.ea.govt.nz/operations/retail/retailers/retailer-obligations/medicallydependant-and-vulnerable-customers/>);
- a protection order;
- a letter from a health practitioner (e.g., a GP); or

- documentation of impairment (e.g., an ID card)

GUIDANCE NOTE 3

Part D asks you to make some declarations regarding the content you have provided in the application, and to acknowledge that you understand what we (the provider) may do with the information you have provided in the application.

One of the declarations asks you to declare that the person who wants to be part of NOW's Vulnerable Consumer Register:

- is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111-emergency service (information on what this means is provided in Guidance Note 1); and
- does not have a means to contact the 111-emergency service that can be operated at the premises for a continuous 8-hour period in the event of a power failure.

What is the 111-emergency service?

The 111-emergency service includes the ambulance service, police service and fire and emergency service.

What does 'a means to contact the 111-emergency service that can be operated at the premises for a continuous 8- hour period in the event of power failure' mean?

It means that the person has a way of contacting the 111-emergency service at the premises where they live.

The 'means' must be available to use to contact the 111-emergency service during an eight-hour period. It does not mean, however, that the device must be able to be actively used for eight hours.

A person will have a way of contacting the 111-emergency service if:

- the premises where they live is receiving a copper landline service (because this service will continue to work in a power cut); or
- the person has unrestricted access to a mobile phone and the premises where they live has adequate mobile phone network coverage; or
- the person has an uninterruptable power supply to maintain a means for contacting the 111-emergency service in the event of a power failure (e.g., a battery back-up).

GENERAL GUIDANCE

What is the 111 Contact Code?

The purpose of the 111 Contact Code is to ensure that consumers who are at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service, and do not have a means for contacting the 111 emergency service, have reasonable access (or persons on their behalf do) to an appropriate means (e.g., a mobile phone) to contact the 111 emergency service in the event of a power failure.

If you have a dispute about your (or your telecommunication company's) rights and obligations under the 111 Contact Code, you have a right for that dispute to be referred to an industry dispute resolution scheme to resolve. A consumer's right to take a dispute under the 111 Contact Code to an industry dispute resolution scheme is protected under the Telecommunications Act 2001 (sections 241-245). Currently, the relevant industry dispute resolution scheme is the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme.

The 111 Contact Code is administered by the Commerce Commission. More information on the 111 Contact Code, and a copy of the 111 Contact Code, is available on the Commerce Commission's website here:

<https://comcom.govt.nz/regulated-industries/telecommunications/projects/commission-111-contact-code>.

What is the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme?

The Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme is a free, independent service to help consumers with complaints about their telecommunications provider. A dispute between a consumer and a telecommunications company about their rights and obligations under the 111 Contact Code may be referred to this Scheme.

For more information on the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme you can contact us on 0800 438 669 and we will refer to where to find more information, or you can read more about the Scheme and how to contact them on their website here: <https://www.tdr.org.nz/about-tdr/all-about-tdr>.

Who should I contact if I have any questions about this form?

Please contact us at NOW on 0800 438 669 if you have any questions about the form, or the 111 Contact Code more generally. Alternatively, you can contact the Commerce Commission at contact@comcom.govt.nz, or phone the Commission's Enquiries team on 0800 943 600.
